

Option Codes and strange looking door handles

Posted by karbuf - 01 Nov 2012 11:37

I have recently purchased two 1988 944 NA's that I am turning into chump cars. One has option code 757, which means it is a "Special Model 944"... whatever that really means...

Because I'm turning these into race cars, there are MANY parts I am putting up for sale, in order to recoupe some of my cash outlay... hence this post...

The "Special 944" has outside door handles that are different from anything I've seen so far. They are not black or even painted like all the others I've seen.. These have a brushed stainless steel looking finish..

Anybody know anything about these? (I'll post pic soon).

thnx, tim.....

=====

Re: Option Codes and strange looking door handles

Posted by Sterling Doc - 05 Nov 2012 15:46

Looks like it's been repainted, too. I turned one into a race car...

=====

Re: Option Codes and strange looking door handles

Posted by karbuf - 05 Nov 2012 16:18

They came in two colors.. silver and black.. this one is black but currently has a poorly applied coat of light grey primer. Plus a previous owner put a turbo body kit on it.. kit looks halfway decent..

=====